EDITORIAL FLINGS

Up to this time it has been a dull summer for the Paris wit who delights in inquiring whether the heat is sufficiently great for you.

Many headlines please, I vow,
Making base hits, kicking goals,
But I want to tell you now
I am tired of Muscle Shoals.

Naming America's twelve greatest women proceeds without mention of the late Carrie Nation, who, in view of the Constitutional Amendment must be considered a pioneer.

A country young fellow named Bings,
Once held an ace and four kings;
He bet with a rush,
But a royal straight flush
Took even shirt studs and rings.

Some observers regard the $50,000 damage suit filed by Judge Halbert against the Lexington Herald as a gesture. Should it be looked upon as a gesture accompanying the exclamation, "Ouch?"

Trilby posed for her living in "the altogether." The 1922 bathing girl poses in the almost altogether just for the fun of it, but had Trilby's disposition been universal she could have won no reward.

The Government desert land to be given to world war veterans is good for one thing at least—the boys can run out there on their vacations to dig a few trenches and play war for old times' sake.

Many clothiers this year are selling a pair of knickerbockers as well as a pair of long trousers with a coat and vest. If you haven't the nerve to wear the knickerbockers your wife or daughter will be delighted with them.

Woman is the clinging vine,
Man is the oak.
That's a fine poetic line
And no joke,
But the real life we view
Plays queer tricks.
Many vines are clinging to
Some awful sticks.

Another reason for the cost of living is this. Your grandfather didn't have to send his sons and daughters to camps in New England or Canada until they were old enough to go to summer resorts, in order to maintain his social position.

Butchers say that the price of meat is due largely to everybody's demand for expensive cuts, yet when you ask a Paris butcher for ten cents' worth of dog meat, doesn't his suspicious glance cut through you like a cleaver?

"Be kind to every woman, man and child with whom you come in contact," says a formula for success. In the case of a Paris joy rider it means returning and picking up the man, woman or child, even if you have to first do some scraping up.

Some day it is going to dawn upon motorcyclists that an automobile or truck cannot be butted off the road by the two-wheelers. Before this knowledge becomes universal, however, the usual number of funerals and ambulance sores with motorcyclists in the star parts will take place.

The public never saw the late Lillian Russell as scantily clad in comic opera as the girl of this period is clad when longing on the bathing beach, whirling through the mazes of the dance, vamping on the streets or automobiling.

Can you beat it? After years and years of hard labor and confining work, a man finally reaches the point where he can afford the automobile he has always longed for only to find that in reaching it his health has been so impaired that his physician insists he must walk.

Henry Ford, who was called a madman when he steamed over to Europe to request the armies to come out of the trenches and stop fighting may observe that President Harding has dealt with the coal and railroad strikes as if his name was Henry Ford.

One of the leading "yellow journals" of New York predicts that someday a monument will be erected to John D. Rockefeller, who "proved that competition is wasteful and unnecessary." There are many in Paris, who, when gasoline advances, and when reports show a large supply on hand, wonder if competition would be useless to consumers.

A man who attended a baseball game in a Western Kentucky town with a flask of whisky in his hip pocket was sentenced to serve a term in jail and put under bond for $1,000, and may have to stay in jail a year because he cannot give bond. Evidently his neighbors feel that a man who is not sufficiently stimulated by baseball is not worthy of confidence.

DEMOCRATS MAY CONTROL NEXT HOUSE

The House has a new bellwether. Charles L. Abernathy, elected to Congress from North Carolina, will be the first name of the House roll-call. Abernathy is a Democrat.

Abernathy replaces Representative Ernest R. Ackerman, of New Jersey, at the top of the list. Ackerman is a Republican. Democrats hail the new bellwether as an omen of victory in the autumn election. They say that when a party loses first place on the rollcall it always loses the subsequent election.

This is one of the most peculiar of congressional superstitions. When Representative Adamson, bellwether of the Democrats, passed out, the Democrats lost the next election. Adamson was the father of the famous Adamson law. Congressional veterans say that when through death, resignation or otherwise, a party loses first place on the roll-call, defeat follows at the next election.

In war times, when legislation was coming so rapidly that members had little chance to study the bills, everyone watched Adamson's vote, for he gave careful consideration to all legislation. When the bells would ring for roll-call, clerks would catch Adamson's vote. Then, as members came puffing in from their offices, clerks would tell them whether Adamson voted aye or nay. The Republicans in this Congress have done the same thing. The majority of the Republicans always vote as Ackman does.

"THE KILLER," A POWERFUL WESTERN DRAMA

One of the most powerful, stirring and colorful photodramas of the year is coming to the Alamo and Grand this afternoon and evening. It is a Benjamin B. Hampton production, "The Killer," said to be one of the greatest of the brilliant producer's works.

"The Killer" is an up-to-the minute picture, which combines romance and color of the old West with something that only the modern age can give in the way of realism and gripping suspense. That sinister figure, "The Killer," said to be the strangest character in literature, literally comes to life through the art of Frank Campeau, the famous character actor. Claire Adams plays the leading and only feminine role, with Jack Conway cast in the romantic lead.

NOT THE WHITE MULE KIND

(Nashville Banner)
There comes a story from Paris, Ky., to the effect that after a lot of liquor was dumped into Stoner Creek the fish began to play leap frog. It couldn't have been the white mule kind or they'd have kicked in and all died.

Over one hundred children from the Odd Fellows Home, at Lexington, headed by the Boys' Band of the Home, visited the Capitol at Frankfort, Tuesday, and serenaded Gov. Morrow, who responded with a speech. The children were taken on a trip up the river on a steamer, and a picnic dinner was served on the river banks above Frankfort. The children enjoyed games of various kinds, following the dinner, and returned to Lexington as tired and happy as children could be. They were accompanied by Grand Master E. B. BOURBON FARM CONDITIONS

Bourbon county crops, though benefitted some by the recent rains, are still in need of moisture, but have not suffered any appreciable loss on account of the drought which has prevailed for the past month. The rains which have fallen have done some slight good. Pastures are burning up, and in many places it would be dangerous to drop a match.

Corn is beginning to show the effect of the dry weather, but has not begun to curl up except in unusually dry places. Prospects are still favorable for a good crop, if rains arrive in time to save it. Tobacco is being topped, and, despite the weather, is looking very well in most fields. Wildfire and rust, very noticeable in many other counties of the Bluegrass, is reported in this county in but a few isolated places. Late potatoes have not "come up." Gardens and truck patches are suffering for the life-giving fluid. Farmers are optimistic, and hoping for the best.

Farmer as "Fighting Man."
The man who would succeed at farming must be a fighter from start to finish. He must fight bugs, and worms, and caterpillars and flies. He must fight loss of time, depreciation of soil, fire, flood, drought and thieves that prey on grain, fruit and vegetables. He must fight greed and graft, wickedness in a thousand forms; and the fiercest battles he ever wages are those against self.—Farm Journal.

BE VIGILANT

(Courier-Journal)

If the passing of more than six weeks without an automobile fatality in Louisville was due wholly or mainly to "enforcement of traffic laws, an educational campaign by the city's newspapers and safety first practices by motorists," the thing to do is to continue every effort that has been made to reduce the number of accidents.

As a rule periods of law enforcement, newspaper discussion of the menace of reckless driving and the exercise of caution by drivers is followed by relaxed vigilance and revival of all the evils that caused complaint until a crusade was begun.

It is observable every day in every street that there are many drivers whose consciousness has not been penetrated by discussion of accidents, or whose conscience has not been touched.

There remain abundant opportunities for traffic policemen to make arrests for reckless and lawless driving, and for the courts to convict reckless, selfish, lawless drivers.

Unless the police maintain a high standard of vigilance the good that has been done by the anti-speeder campaign soon will be a vanished blessing. Again the streets will be as dangerous to life and property as they ever were. At present they are not so safe that anyone changed with enforcing the laws designed to prevent reckless driving should feel that the time to rest upon the oars has arrived. A recent tragedy may not have been due to reckless driving, but eternal vigilance upon the part of drivers and policemen is the price of safety.
